RE: Poor Boy Claims, DOE/019/024, Grand County, Utah

On August 21, 1986, Division staff members Wayne Hedberg, David Wham and Lynn Kunzler visited the site of the Poor Boy Claims. These claims were previously owned by Mr. Robert Barnes, but are now held by DAV-TEX Corporation. The owner is Howard Davidson. The purpose of the site visit was to check the status of the reclamation operations which have occurred. The last field inspection by the Division occurred on June 24, 1985.

It appeared that the re-grading work which had been performed in 1985 had not changed since the day of the last field inspection. There were no obvious signs of any additional reclamation or site disturbance. At the time of the field inspection, the only activity that was noted involved an individual who was performing routine maintenance and monitoring activity of the USGS gaging station. This station is located immediately adjacent to the mine site on the Colorado River. Again, no change was noted from the field observations as identified in the field memo from Susan Linner dated July 19, 1985.

Recommendations

None warranted.
